Wife's tribute to man who died after fight

Newly-married Andrew Watt, who died from his injuries after a fight broke out

The Poplar Kitten pub, where the incident took place

Residents' shock after incident in 'quiet' area

A MAN who lives close to the Poplar Kitten pub in Harlow has described how he saw emergency services rush to the scene in the moments after Andrew Watt was involved in a fight that killed him.

Police officers and paramedics rushed to the pub in Tawneys Road just after 10.40pm on Thursday (August 17).

Newly-married Mr Watt, 48, suffered a head injury and was airlifted to Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge where he sadly died on Saturday (August 19).

Residents of the "relatively quiet" housing estate have spoken about their shock.

A resident, who has lived over the road from the pub for 38 years but did not want to be named, said: "I was coming home from bowls at around 10.45pm when I saw lots of people across the road.

Ambulance

"An ambulance arrived at the pub and I went outside to see what was going on.

"It was quite dark so I couldn't see how serious it was.

"I didn't know what was going on but a lot of people were talking.

"There was an ambulance, three police cars and a little later there was a helicopter flying above.

"It has got a lot quieter because it used to be quiet rowdy when we first moved in.

"Fights in pubs are not uncommon but I was quite surprised to hear that

'Gorgeous' husband had tied the knot for just eight weeks earlier

By James Gregory
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A WIFE has paid tribute to her "gorgeous husband" of eight weeks who died after being assaulted in a pub in Harlow.

Andrew Watt, of Bush Fair, died last Saturday after being involved in a fight.

Police were called to the Poplar Kitten pub in Tawneys Road just after 10.40pm on Thursday of last week.

The 48-year-old suffered a head injury and was airlifted to hospital where he sadly died.

Officers later launched a manslaughter investigation into his death.

His wife Sarah Watt has now spoken out publicly for the first time.

She said: "Tragically my best friend and gorgeous husband was taken away from me.

"We had only been married for eight weeks. Our wedding day was the most amazing day of our lives. He was the love of my life.

"Andy was the most infectious person I have ever known. He was loving, caring, funny, and a fantastic friend, brother, nephew and son.

"His friends and family are devastated, as am I, and we are going to miss him dearly.

"He was a popular figure who was loved by all. But most of all of he was my husband, who I miss more than words can ever say.

"I am absolutely heartbroken. "I wish for privacy at this time so please give me time to grieve."

Two men aged 23 and 26 from Harlow were arrested on suspicion of GBH and released on bail until September 15, pending further enquires.

The scary Annabelle doll inside the Harlow shopping mall's Cineworld auditorium

Horror film doll causes a few frights at cinema

THE scary doll and title character of horror film franchise Annabelle caused a fright in the Harvey Centre last week.

To promote prequel Annabelle Creation, which is released this week in cinemas, the toy was placed inside the Harlow shopping mall's Cineworld auditorium.

But the doll, with a life of its own, was also spotted inside the lift, in the bathroom and serving popcorn to customers around the centre.

The instalment builds on the horror series which has already spawned The Conjuring, The Conjuring 2 and Annabelle.

Bryan Young, Harvey

Centre manager, said:

"Annabelle is a hugely popular franchise so this was absolutely something we wanted to be involved with.

"I haven't seen the film yet but I can confirm that Annabelle is totally frightening in real life. I would not want to be left in a room alone with her!"

Customers are invited to check out the centre's social media to win Annabelle-related goodies.

Resident voices fears about traffic network

Complaints to council about seven faults with system

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S road traffic network has been blasted as "madness," by a resident who has raised a number of concerns.

Adrian Winch, 59, of Old Road, Harlow, has drawn attention to seven perceived faults with the system which have been brought to the attention of planners at Essex County Council.

Chimpanzee

He said: "I have lived in Harlow for 22 years and as a sensible, sane and logical person I can only draw three conclusions as to why they waste our money on these schemes.

"Either the policy is being engineered by an illiterate chimpanzee, whoever is developing and implementing the policy is completely nuts or it is the deliberate policy to cause as much traffic disruption around Harlow without shutting the roads."

Mr Winch identified the

The Clockhouse roundabout

seven problem areas as the following:

■ The A414/A1169 "Spanish style," junction near Potter Street with "poor signage"

■ The A414 Clockhouse Roundabout. The complainant said: "Straight on arrows force drivers to turn into the left lane causing hundreds of near misses"

■ Taxis are able to use the bus lanes which "trip traffic lights," and cause congestion

■ Cars are cutting straight across Edinburgh Way from the Queensgate Centre to turn around more easily rather than turning left

■ Traffic lights on Newhall make congestion "unbelievable"

■ Newhall itself has "poor parking space"

■ The roundabout near the town railway station leads traffic in awkward directions

Mr Winch continued: "Essex County Council is trying to railroad through a new exit for the River Way industrial estate to relieve congestion.

"Yet nearly all of the traffic congestion on Edinburgh Way is caused by correctable planning mistakes.

"The Harlow retail park

(Homebase) traffic lights are responsible for 90 per cent of the congestion in both directions.

"It is an obvious mistake and why was it not corrected in the first place?"

He added: "Are all of these schemes on the east side of Harlow an underhand way of forcing the north M11 exit through while treating any resident who objects as an inconvenience to be ignored?"

Aware

Essex County Council has not provided a statement but a spokesman confirmed they are aware of his concerns and that Harlow MP Robert Halfon has also been alerted.

In February Harlow councillor Mike Danvers blasted the fact residents are being left to cross four lanes of traffic around the town centre due to a lack of pedestrian crossings.

He said: "It is what we hear most often on the doorsteps and people are fed up."

Air ambulance is called in to help injured woman

AN air ambulance was sent to Harlow on Wednesday morning after a woman in her 40s fell over.

The ambulance service was called to Hauling Hill in Harlow at around 8.19am after reports that a woman had suffered an ankle injury.

Broken

A spokesman for the East of England Ambulance Service (EEAST) said: "We received a report of a woman in her 40s who had a fall and suffered an ankle injury.

"We sent an ambulance crew to the scene and they requested an air ambulance to provide pain relief to the woman.

"The woman had suffered a broken ankle and was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital (PAH) by land ambulance."

Youngsters enjoy book day with a caterpillar theme

YOUNGSTERS at Kiddi Caru Day Nursery in Harlow celebrated their Book Day with activities themed on The Hungry Caterpillar.

The iconic 1969 novel was enjoyed by pre-school children at the centre in Kiln Lane, Harlow.

As well as reading the book, the children and staff played Hungry Caterpillar bingo, made caterpillars and butterflies from lots of arts and crafts materials.

LUBBOCK CASE: Former TV celebrity given go-ahead to pursue damages claim

Father's 'disgust' at ruling to let star sue police

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TERRY LUBBOCK has slammed a judge's decision to allow Michael Barrymore to sue Essex Police.

The 1990s TV personality was arrested in 2007 on suspicion of raping and murdering Terry's son, Stuart, 31, at the star's Roydon mansion in 2001.

The 65-year-old former Strike it Lucky host was never charged and has always insisted he is innocent, telling the High Court last week as he sought to sue police that the arrest ruined his career.

Barrymore can now pursue his claim for £2.5 million in damages. Essex Police admitted the arrest of Barrymore and three others was unlawful and released a statement to defend their actions.

Entitled

A High Court judge ruled on August 18 that Mr Barrymore (real name Parker) was entitled to "more than nominal" damages after Essex police previously offered just £1.

Terry Lubbock, 72, who lives in a Harlow care home, said: "The judgement today is disgusting, after 16 years I think it's a total cover-up, even by the police.

"Why the hell did it take years for the police to arrest Michael Barrymore and four other guys on suspicion of rape and murder – what happened to that?

"We've got to go back 16 years now for the truth and the police messed up on the first day when my son was murdered, they were disgusting."

A pathologist's tests revealed Stuart suffered a serious sexual assault before his death and may have been held down under water.

A coroner gave an open verdict over Stuart's death after a forensic pathologist said he did not consider there to be "any possible benign or accidental explanation" for the nature and extent of the injuries in 2007.

Terry recently lodged an appeal to reopen his son's inquest after a 16-year campaign.

Injuries

He continued: "Only one out of four pathologists flagged up the anal injuries that Stuart sustained and those injuries led to his death, it was murder.

"The only thing I can do is just to keep going, I can only keep going with your help."

He added on Barrymore's compensation bid: "I don't think he should have got anything because that was a cover-up, the whole thing has been a cover-up.

"The way this is going now I think he could have asked for even more, it's disgusting."

Barrymore, whose real name is Michael Parker, was not present in court for the decision.

'I am 64 years old but I can run and play like I am 30'

Samurai and ninja trainer extols virtues of joining his new class

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SAMURAI and ninja training will soon be available in Harlow when a unique class begins.

Mike Graham, 64, of Wharley Hook, Harlow, will run classes at Latton Bush Centre, Southern Way, with his Muso Shugyo Ryu martial arts school.

"I was lucky enough to be able to study with authentic schools," he said.

"Most martial arts are very modern, much was made up in the 20th century. But with samurai you can trace its history right back."

Samurai and ninja training covers unarmed combat skills as well as specialist fighting, complete with full armour and spears.

From August 30, classes will begin at North Weald Village Hall.

The group will meet there until the Latton Bush Centre later becomes available.

Course

The introductory course, spread over four or five weekly two-hour sessions, allows newbies to try some moves and wear armour for £10.

Anyone aged over 16 can take part and membership is available for those keen to learn more.

Mr Graham teaches classes of between ten and 14 with a curriculum, but students have some choice in what they learn.

He continued: "It is a real martial art which I teach in a western style."

"It is about the mindset as well. Usually the best thing is to run away rather than be in a fight."

"I am 64 years old but I can run around and play like I am 30. I think doing martial arts keeps you mobile and supple."

"It is not physically hard but it keeps you moving."

"It is good for the health side of things, but it is also about meeting people."

Samurai training is coming to Harlow

"It is a social thing as much as anything."

He added that people try samurai for a variety of reasons, but many are keen to learn a bit about the history of the ancient art.

Born in Australia, Mr Graham discovered samurai after a visit to Japan. He has been teaching in Essex since 1992. Some of his previous students have gone on to feature in films but he is particularly proud to have taught an older lady who took to the sword and armour with relish.

somebody had died.

"It's relatively quiet, things happen like they do everywhere else, but never to that extent."

Two men were arrested on suspicion of GBH and have been released on police bail until September 15.

Another resident, who also asked to remain anonymous, said: "I was really shocked to hear about the death of the man outside the pub."

Quiet

"I haven't lived here very long but everyone keeps themselves to themselves."

"Nothing like that has ever happened here, as far as I know, it's a quiet area."

Police have now launched a manslaughter investigation have asked anyone with information to come forward.

Enquiries in to the incident are continuing and anyone with information is asked to contact police at the Major Crime Team in Harlow on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

St Mark's students Callie-Anne & Lauren Connelly show true delight at their results

PE teachers Ray Flowers and Emily Webster celebrate with Phoebe Jewell at St Mark's School

More than 300 students receive firm university offers Sixth-former celebrations as A-level results hit a new high

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of students are leaving Harlow's two sixth forms with top grades as A-level results went up across the board.

Harlow College, in Velizy Avenue, and St Mark's West Essex Catholic School, Tripton Road, both performed better than last year.

This is against a backdrop of uncertainty surrounding A-levels with some fearing new specifications made the exams harder.

More than 300 students have received firm university offers at Harlow College after 80 per cent of papers were passed with an A* to C grade.

This breaks down to 99 per cent of exams passed with an A* to E grade.

Few were happier than 18-year-old Alinafe Ndalama who will now study at Nottingham University after getting two A*s and one A.

She said: "It was way beyond what I was hoping for and I am very happy."

In the dark

Another student Ronan Roberts had not seen his results when he spoke to the Star as he had fallen foul of Harlow College's 'no ID no results' rule.

However, despite not knowing his grades the 18-year-old said his place at the University of East Anglia has been confirmed.

He said: "I know I have got a good result but I don't know what it is yet!"

Mehroz Aftab, 18, got two Cs and a star distinction at Harlow College. He said: "I got what I wanted but I was very nervous."

Charles Rowe, 18, was less happy with his results of two Cs and a B.

He said: "They are not great but I am fine with it. I do not want to go to university, I am just trying to get a job."

Karen Spencer, principal of Harlow College, said: "I'm incredibly proud of our students here at Harlow College."

"Once again they've shown how hardworking and talented they are."

"Students have secured some of the top grades in both academic and vocational subjects.

"They've also secured some fantastic university places and apprenticeships – they are a credit to Harlow."

at Harlow College after 80 per cent of papers are passed with an A* to C grade

Students at Harlow College look happy on results day

Justin Ajisegbede with teacher Vivian Kimeng

Jumping for joy at Harlow College

School said he was "really, really pleased," that 62 per cent of all papers there were passed with A*-C grades.

In addition, 96 per cent of all papers were passed with an A* to E grade.

John Taylor, who doubles up as deputy head teacher, said: "They have done really well, the results are up ten per cent from last year. I am really, really pleased, it is a great performance from the students."

Becky Gill, 18, and Daniel Goddard also, 18 were happy with their results.

Daniel, after getting two As and a B said: "It is what I was expecting. "There is stuff I could have done differently but I am happy with what I did."

Becky, commenting on her A and two Cs, said: "I needed all Cs so getting an A was great. But I am off to the University of Hertfordshire so I don't care."

One of the top performers was Niall Ramphal with two A*s and an A.

However, the 18-year-old still faced a nervous wait to see if his conditional offer to Imperial College London would be accepted.

The university had asked for three A* grades.

Niall said: "I can't complain. I will wait and see what happens. "I thought it would be harder at A-level but further maths was tough."

Vision of science campus unveiled

Detailed plans are submitted to Harlow Council

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

PUBLIC Health England has set out its vision to create a Harlow science campus in its application for planning permission.

More than 3,000 documents and nearly 300 drawings have been submitted to Harlow Council as PHE seeks to transform the former GlaxoSmith-Kline centre in Pinnacles.

Having bought the site for £25 million last month, Richard Gleave, PHE deputy chief executive, is hopeful the local authority will pass the application.

Exciting

After the announcement on Tuesday, he said: "This is the next step for us and it is so exciting."

"There is shaping and progress now after all the detailed planning we have done."

"We have done some excellent preparatory work. We have engaged with the community and we will continue to do that."

"We want to become part of the area. I am looking forward to hearing the planning committee decision," which, he added, is expected before the end of the year.

Artist's impression of the view from the science campus main offices

PHE will use the Harlow site to relocate current facilities from Porton in Wiltshire, Colindale in north London and in central London.

The campus will bring together experts in cancer, mental health, nutrition, smoking, alcohol, diabetes, dementia, infectious diseases, environmental hazards and climate change.

Mr Gleave continued: "This campus is going to be one of the biggest two or three health science centres throughout the world."

"It will be one that people want to come and work in. It will look at how we protect health from disease and it will also research how the Government can improve public health."

If all goes ahead as planned, building work will begin in 2019 with phased occupation starting in 2021. By 2024 there will be 2,750 staff with a possible expansion to 3,250.

Plans also include a visitor area for school groups to meet PHE scientists and attend talks.

The firm is hoping to establish links with schools to offer work experience and apprenticeship opportunities.

In addition a PHE spokesman said the firm will invest in highways and public transport around Harlow.

Charity's ongoing fight to help prevent suicide

Expert fears town's deprived areas harbour potential victims

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MENTAL health expert is concerned residents in Harlow's deprived areas are more likely to consider suicide.

Mike Ellen, of Harlow-based charity Mind in West Essex, said that middle-aged men are still the most likely group to consider ending their own life.

Ahead of World Suicide Prevention Day on Sunday, September 10, the Bush Fair service's trainee and resilience manager shared common situations in which people are at their lowest.

He said: "We have quite a few people that come through our service. People experience some sort of loss, or debt, or feel guilty, or find themselves helpless or homeless.

"A common one is middle-aged men who have been made redundant. It can also be a relationship break-up.

"They have got to a position in life and the loss of that can be quite hard.

Desperate

"We try to find out the details. People face desperate times and they think of suicide as one option.

"It can shock them into making changes but if they cannot change their situation people can make detailed plans as to how to end their own life.

"We ask people questions and ask them what would stop them making an attempt."

Latest statistics show that men aged 45 to 59 are the most at risk, although the number of people committing suicide had fallen since the previous report.

Suicide remains the biggest killer for men aged 24 to 44.

"There has been a fall for males but it has gone up a bit for women," added Mr Ellen.

"But it is (for women) highest in the same age groups.

"It is that sort of mid-life crisis, when they get to that stage of life, or in difficult economic times.

"Thankfully, we are starting to recover a bit economically."

Statistics do not go down far enough to uncover if Harlow is a particular hotspot for people ending their own lives. The East of England has seen the lowest number of suicides with poorer areas such as Yorkshire Humber seeing the most.

Mike Ellen of Mind in West Essex

However, Mr Ellen said that in all affluent regions there are pockets of poverty.

"Harlow has got some deprived areas," he said. "People living in these areas may struggle financially and they are more likely to have drug or alcohol issues.

"Sometimes we find that in deprived areas people may ask for help but the wealthier may be less likely to ask."

"About ten to 25 times more people make attempts (to end their life)," he added.

Regret

"And often they say they really regret it afterwards.

"If we can allow people to come and ask for help we can make a difference."

Mind will complete a publicity drive on World Suicide Prevention Day which will include a Bikeathon where volunteers will aim to pedal the distance around West Essex on a static bike.

Three months of disruption at PAH as improvement project is started

PATIENTS at Harlow's hospital have been warned to expect disruption for the next three months as improvement work begins.

Princess Alexandra Hospital, in Hamstel Road, saw planned works to their outpatient areas begin on Wednesday of this week.

Phase one will take place overnight from 8pm to 6am and will affect the corridor between the ground floor lift lobby and the outpatients waiting area.

A spokesman said: "The works is being undertaken to make the environment brighter and more accessible for patients and visitors.

"The flooring will be improved to allow ease of access from one area to another and the signage will become more user friendly."

Diversion

In the evenings visitors will need to follow diversion signs.

Security staff and porters will be on hand in this area to assist patients, visitors and staff as the usual signage will not be in place.

Patients, visitors and staff will be able to access the area during the day.

As part of the project the retail and seating facilities in the outpatient areas will also be upgraded and improved.

The spokesman added: "The hospital will keep patients and the public updated about the next phases of the work in coming weeks."

A £925,000 project to transform the accident and emergency department started in July and was due to last for ten weeks.

Day to remember for football fan Lucas, 9

Boy meets Premier League heroes before head shave

Before - Bournemouth star Charlie Daniels with Lucas Kehoe

By William Mata
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A NINE-YEAR-OLD AFC Bournemouth fan met his football heroes before completing a sponsored head shave.

Long-haired Lucas Kehoe, of Church Langley, Harlow, was given a short back and sides by Charlie Daniels, a defender for the Premier League side, at the club's training ground.

Before the sponsored snip Lucas watched The Cherries in practice and also got to meet England striker Jermain Defoe, goalkeeper Asmir Begovic and manager Eddie Howe.

He raised £595 in donations for Cancer Research UK and £200 for CryUK (Cardiac Risk in the Young) with Gift Aid to be added on top.

Faye Kehoe, Lucas' s mum, said: "Lucas is a keen supporter (of Bournemouth) because his dad was born there and they regularly attend matches together."

"Our family has been affected by both illnesses (cardiac issues and cancer) and we are extremely proud of Lucas' efforts."

The shave took place earlier this month while Lucas was visiting family on the school break.

Mrs Kehoe said: "Lucas got to watch a training session and meet all the team prior to the shave."

"A really exciting day for Lucas, one he will never forget and wants to share with everyone."

Police launch new scheme to help find missing people

Herbert Protocol reduces the time it takes to gather vital information

By Richard Duggan
observer@hertsexnews.co.uk

A NATIONAL scheme which aims to reduce the time it takes to gather vital information when a person with dementia goes missing is being implemented by Essex Police this month.

The Herbert Protocol, named after war veteran George Herbert who lived with dementia, encourages carers, friends and relatives of people with dementia to fill in a form which could help the authorities find their loved one quicker in the event of them going missing.

From Monday August 14, Essex Police adopted the protocol and will work with Essex County Council, Thurrock and Southend unitary authorities and the Alzheimer's Society to encourage the completion of the form which can then be passed to the police in the event someone with dementia cannot be found.

Details

The form records all the vital details in one place including medication required, mobile numbers, places previously located or attended, a photo, and any details of a daily routine.

In the event someone does go missing, a completed form saves vital time allowing officers the ability to get on with searching rather than gathering basic information.

Assistant Chief Constable Andy Prophet said: "When someone goes missing it's imperative that police officers have as much information about that person as possible to help us find them."

"If that information has been gathered in advance it saves us precious time which can be spent looking for someone."

Distressing

Councillor John Spence, Cabinet Member for Health and Adult Social Care at Essex County Council, said: "Nothing is more worrying or distressing than when a loved one or friend goes missing or doesn't return home, so I empathise with those living with, or caring for someone with dementia who sometimes go astray."

"I am delighted to be supporting the Herbert Protocol and encourage all carers, families, friends or neighbours to download the form, complete it and store it to help Essex Police in the event a loved one goes missing."

Completed forms will be kept by carers and relatives in a safe place so they can be given to the authorities in the event someone does go missing.

You can download a form at www.essex.police.uk/advice/herbert-protocol

A new scheme will help trace missing elderly people quickly

Police put the brake on illegal car racing

RESIDENTS in Essex with footage of illegal car racing events are being encouraged to share the material with Essex Police so that offenders can be identified.

Officers are working to tackle the antisocial and nuisance events which have been bothering several communities across the county.

Sergeant Will Willsher, of the Chigwell roads policing unit, said: "Essex Police's stance on cruisers and car enthusiasts is clear and unchanged."

Respect

"Those who gather in appropriate places with the land owner's consent to socialise and admire each others cars are free to do so if they show respect and consideration to the local community."

"Those who choose to act antisocially and drive in a manner which puts others at risk will be identified and we will use a variety of powers available to us to encourage them to change their behaviour."

Clarification

WITH regard to the story on page 5 of the Harlow Star on August 10, 2017 titled 'Family's outcry after kitchen nightmare.'

We would like to confirm that this story has no link to Huntersbrook Kitchens Ltd, whose advert was displayed below.

Julie Sampson's concerns, as the story clearly dictates, were related to Wren Kitchens

Six Harlow households are still watching TV in good old black and white

SIX households in Harlow are still watching a black-and-white television as colour TV turns 50.

Data from TV Licensing shows that half a dozen monochrome licences have been renewed this year for the Harlow postcode, while 8,000 homes across the country still screen in black and white.

There are five Bishop's Stortford households with an old-style licence, seven in Stevenage, 15 in St Albans and an astonishing 53 in Luton.

Costing £49, the black and white licence is good value compared to the £145.50 for a regular licence, which includes cover for online and on-demand services.

However, with fewer and fewer monochrome television sets, observers are surprised that so many tune in to watch an outdated service. Jason Hill, TV Licensing spokesman, said: "It is striking that in an era of HD TV and spectacular true-to-life pictures, there are still viewers content to watch programmes like The Night Manager and Planet Earth in monochrome."

Licence

"Whether you watch in black and white on a 50-year-old TV set or in colour on a tablet, you need to be covered by a TV licence to watch or record programmes as they are broadcast."

The first broadcast in colour TV was made on BBC2 all the way back in 1967.

Nationally there are more black-and-white licences registered in London than anywhere else.

Developer's U-turn on homes vow sparks residents' dismay

Firm is accused over plan to scrap affordable flats on Churchgate Hotel site

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

OLD Harlow residents are furious a firm is looking to scrap plans to offer affordable housing on the Churchgate Hotel development.

The refurbished Grade II-listed hotel is currently on the market for £1.75 million. Harlow Council approved the developer's plan to construct 26 surrounding dwellings last year.

But Churchgate Street residents were appalled to receive a letter last week stating the nine promised affordable flats could no longer be so.

Opposition

Instead the developer is seeking to modify this planning obligation and will "provide an off-site financial contribution in lieu of onsite affordable units".

On the application, the Suffolk firm stated the change to the obligation is required as "no landlords showed any interests" to purchase the onsite units.

Five neighbours have registered opposition to the change.

Eugenie Harvey, a resident of Churchgate Street, said: "We were

Churchgate Hotel in Harlow is on the market dismayed to receive a letter from Harlow Council inviting our comments on the application.

"The developers of the Churchgate Hotel site (seek to) modify their obligation to provide affordable units and instead to make an off-site financial contribution in lieu.

"We will be opposing this modification in the strongest terms."

Mrs Harvey, director of a charitable foundation, feels affordable housing is key to meeting what she described as a "housing crisis". Not only do we want homes for our hard-working teachers, nurses, carers and emergency service workers but we want them in our street.

Eugenie Harvey and Andy Thornton, both of Churchgate Street

"That was our expectation when we raised no objections to the developer's plan for the redevelopment of the Churchgate Hotel in the first place."

Dismayed

Norman Crossley, of nearby road Elmbridge, wrote in a letter to the council: "I am dismayed this council is considering abrogating its responsibility to provide affordable housing by being financially induced by a developer.

"Please do not succumb to this. Affordable housing is sorely needed in the area, as is the social gain offered by a mixed development.

"It would be scandalous to allow the developer to get away with reneging on the original intention and planned approval."

The planning documents state the determination deadline is on Thursday, September 21. Harlow Council has invited residents' comments on the modification.

Harlow Council and the developer have both been approached for a comment.

Portrait of town planner on display

A PORTRAIT of Harlow New Town architect and planner Sir Frederick Gibberd has been hung in The Gibberd Gardens.

The pixilated pictures of Sir Frederick and his wife Lady Pat Gibberd are now on display in the tea rooms of the attraction. Both works can be seen in the café which is open from 2pm on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Club will get a new look for nights out

HARLOW War Memorial Snooker and Social Club is due to be transformed in a £34,000 investment.

Music and club nights at the popular bar in Garden Terrace Road, Old Harlow, will be enhanced by new lounge carpet, hallway decoration and internal works.

Essex County Council's initiatives fund provided £20,000 towards the modifications. Councillors are due to officially open the club on Thursday, August 31.

Charities need to apply now for project grants

TOWN charitable projects have the chance to receive a grant of up to £10,000 from the Harlow Recreation Trust.

Applications need to be submitted before September 22 to be considered for a grant by the Essex Community Foundation (ECF), which manages the recreation trust.

ECF, which is led by former Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall, will make a decision by mid-October.

Joanne Weston completes the sponsored ride

100 miles for £1,000

A HARLOW woman completed the gruelling 100-mile Prudential RideLondon to raise funds for St Clare Hospice.

Joanne Weston, 47, raised £1,000 for the Hastingwood-based charity who cared for her mother Barbara Mackay before she died last December.

The ride went from the capital through Surrey and over Box Hill before finishing along the mall.

Couple are 'heart and soul' of Race for Life

A HARLOW couple has received a national Flame of Hope award from Cancer Research UK in recognition of their outstanding contribution to the charity's work.

The charity's Flame of Hope Awards acknowledge remarkable efforts in fundraising and volunteering made by people from all walks of life.

Marie and Garry Golder have been named Cancer Research UK Honorary Fellows in celebration of their unflinching loyalty and dedication shown to the town's Race for Life event over many years.

Since establishing Harlow Race for Life in 2002, Marie, a product support manager, and Garry, an HGV driver for Tesco, have worked tirelessly to make the event a success every year.

They recruit around 100 volunteers to marshal the 5k and 10k course, they also work for months in advance helping to organise and plan the event.

On event day, they are on site at 5am to set up the course, with a small support team.

Four hours later, they are still smiling and enthusiastic; welcoming volunteers and briefing them on their roles. Marie and Garry then stay until the end, looking after participants and helping to clear up.

Marie Golder said: "We fell in love with Race for Life after I took part in the first ever one at Battersea Park years ago.

"We always thought it would be nice to have one closer to home and volunteered to help organise it.

"It's taken a lot of time and work over the years but we do have lots of amazing people helping us.

"Every year when we meet the people taking part and hear their stories about cancer and how hard their treatment is, you think to yourself, if they can do that then we can do this.

"It's really humbling when you see what they've been through and it makes it worth all of the effort."

As well as being the life and soul of Harlow Race for Life, the couple used to put on the Spooner Event in memory of their friend Sue Spooner, who died after battling lung and breast cancer.

They have also helped raise awareness of Race for Life,

Garry once drove a giant trainer around the country, sponsored by Tesco Welham Green, to get people to sign up.

Garry said: "We're honoured to get the award but we don't do this on our own, a lot of people give up their time to make it happen too. This recognition is for all of them as well.

"We always say it's just a bit of hard work for us and then one busy day at the event itself but that day makes such a difference to people who are fighting cancer. That's why we keep doing it."

The couple were nominated for their award by Courtney Culverhouse, Race for Life event manager in Essex and Hertfordshire.

Courtney said: "Marie and Garry are an absolute joy to work with and they really are the heart and soul of Harlow Race for Life.

"Over the past 15 years, they have helped us raise over £2 million for Cancer Research UK. They have shown incredible loyalty and commitment.

"You simply could not ask for more loyal supporters than Marie and Garry.

"Everyone who comes across them is in awe of what they do; their passion, commitment and dedication is second to none."

Over the past 40 years, survival has doubled – today half of people with cancer will survive their disease for at least 10 years.

Cancer Research UK's ambition is to ensure that by 2034, three-quarters of people survive their disease for 10 years or more after a cancer diagnosis.

Sir Harpal Kumar, Cancer Research UK Chief Executive, said: "Cancer Research UK has made enormous progress in the fight against cancer and has set ambitious plans and aspirations for the future.

"However, progress is only made possible thanks to the dedication and commitment of our volunteers and supporters, without whom we would not be able to fund outstanding scientists, doctors and nurses.

"Our Flame of Hope Awards give us the opportunity to celebrate and say thank you to these enormously generous volunteers and supporters for the fantastic work they do."

We'll help you find the right words

Verse 1

One night a man had a dream, I dreamed I was walking along the beach with god. Across the sky flashed scenes from my life. For each scene I noticed two sets of footprints in the sand; one belonged to me, and the other to the God.

When the last scene of my life flashed before him, I looked back at the footprints in the sand. I noticed that many times along the path of my life there was only one set of footprints. I also noticed that it happened at the very lowest and saddest times in my life.

This really bothered me and I questioned God about it. "God, you said that once I decided to follow you, you'd walk with me all the way. But I have noticed that at the worst times in my life, there is only one set of footprints. How could you leave me when I needed you the most?"

God replied "My precious, precious child, I love you and would never leave you. During your times of suffering and when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."

Verse 2

It broke our heart to lose you
But you didn't go alone
A part of us went with you
The day God called you home.
A million words won't bring you back,
We know because we've tried,
Neither will a million tears,
We know because we've cried.
With everything to live for,
And so much love to share,
Only God will know,
Why he took you in His care.

Verse 3

They say that hearts don't break, God
But that's not always true,
The day you took our Mum away,
You broke our heart in two.
Look around your garden Lord,
She won't be hard to find,
She has a face that's full of love,
And a heart that's good and kind.
Tell her that we love her,
And when you see her smile,
Put your arms around her Lord,
And hold her for a while.

Verse 4

I lie awake at night when the world's asleep
I take a walk down memory lane,
With tears upon my cheek,
No one sees my broken heart,
That lies beneath the smile,
No one knows the loneliness
That's with me all the while,
No matter how life changes,
No matter what I do,
A special place within my heart,
Is always there with you.

Verse 5

When I'm on my own, Mum,
I always think of you.
Thoughts about the laughs we shared,
And the things we used to do.
We had so many happy times together, you and I.
You can't replace that kind of love
No matter how you try.
These words alone cannot convey
What I feel within my heart,
But I know someday we'll meet again,
And then we'll never part

Verse 6

When life was at its sweetest
In the midst of happy days,
With everything to live for,
So much love to give,
Only God will ever know,
Why He called you to His care.
As time goes on without you,
As days grow into years
They hold a million memories
And a thousand silent tears.

Verse 7

No one sees the broken heart
That lies behind the smile,
No one knows the loneliness
That's with us all the while.
No matter how life changes,
No matter what I do,
A special place within my heart,
Is always there for you.

Verse 8

We don't ask for miracles
But today just one would do,
To leave the door wide open
And see you walk right through.
We would wrap our arms around you
And kiss your smiling face
For you were very special,
Who no one can replace.

Verse 9

Thank you for the happy childhood years,
The laughter we shared outweighed the tears,
We learned life's lessons in story and song,
And if we follow your example
we cannot go wrong.
We hold you close within our hearts,
And there you will remain,
To walk beside us all life through,
Until we meet again.

Verse 10

There is always a face before me,
A voice I would love to hear,
A smile I will always remember,
Of a brother I loved so dear.
Deep in my heart lies a picture,
More precious than silver or gold,
It's a picture of my brother,
Whose memory will never grow old.

Verse 11

I sat by your bedside, holding your hand,
I knew we had to part,
But when I saw that you had gone,
It really broke my heart.
You can't come back, I know that's true,
But one day my darling, I'll come to you.
In life I loved you darling; in death I love you still.

Verse 12

The happy times that we enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a vacant place
This world can never fill.
Though your smile has gone forever,
And your hand we cannot touch,
We shall never lose sweet memories,
Of you we loved so much.

Verse 13

God saw you getting weary,
And knew you needed rest,
But He broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.
No more pain, no more fears
I'll always remember the happy times.

Sales director praises the efforts of her team after they win the top prize at Awards success shows big time is beckoning for watch strap firm

AFTER a fantastic evening at the Watford Colosseum celebrating at the SME Hertfordshire Business Awards, we are delighted to announce the Overall Winner as LBS Watch Straps.

Sales director Sam Rose said: "Thank you for such a great event – it's only just sinking in."

"What a great achievement for the whole team, I'm very proud of them."

LBS started over 30 years ago from a small workshop in the heart of Hatton Garden. Since then they have expanded rapidly, especially since 2010, consistently growing year on year and gaining market share.

They haven't forgotten their humble beginnings and regardless of our growth still believe that the price, quality of our products and above all our customer service, is the most important aspect of our business.

Achievement

With a maximum of eight companies going through to the finals it is a huge achievement to be recognised. Our winners and runners-up come from a wide range of industries, showing business excellence throughout Hertfordshire.

TV sports presenter Jules Breach handed out the awards.

Also at the awards was Paralympian David Clarke, who was England blind football captain and is still the leading goal scorer. But his talents do not end there.

David is also head of the Clydesdale Bank Customer Banking Centre in St Albans, and was at the awards as a representative of the bank. He is also president of the St Albans and District Chamber of Commerce. He lives in Harpenden.

Pam Charman from the Herts branch of the Federation of Small Businesses was there too.

Jan Hunter and David Porter from Knight Property Management, centre, with Jules Breach and Cllr David Levett from North Herts District Council

Double success for these knights in shining armour of letting agents

LEADING letting agent Knight Property Management was one of the night's biggest winners at the SME Hertfordshire Business Awards.

The Hertford-based company beat off stiff competition to win both the hotly contested Service Excellence category for a second time – plus the East Herts Council Business of the Year award for a third time.

"We're absolutely thrilled to be Service Excellence and East Herts winners again, as we were up against some great Hertfordshire businesses," said director Jan Hunter. "Knight Property Management was founded on the principle of offering outstanding customer service to exceed our landlords' expectations, so to win the Service Excellence category again is really rewarding."

Fellow director David Porter added: "We were delighted to win East Herts Business of the Year, a category which we've won twice previously. We always support other local businesses wherever possible, as we think it's really important for everybody that East Herts has a strong and vibrant economy. It's a real honour to receive our third award in this category."

Independent

Knight Property Management is a multi-award-winning, independent letting agent working with owners of high quality residential and commercial properties. Exceptional service and great value come as standard, as does a full money back guarantee.

One of the most prestigious events in the county's business calendar, the SME Hertfordshire Business Awards were held at the Watford Colosseum on Wednesday July 27. A total of 19 awards were up for grabs and the sponsors included the Federation of Small Businesses and Clydesdale Bank.

■ For more information on Knight Property Management, and expert advice on becoming a buy-to-let landlord, call 01992 308181, email info@knightpm.co.uk or visit www.knightpm.co.uk

Apprentice candidate to be keynote speaker

THE keynote speaker at Ambition 2017 sales and marketing conference is personal trainer and businesswoman Katie Bulmer-Cooke. If you're a fan of The Apprentice, you'll recognise her as a candidate from the 2014 series.

In her session 'What Katie Did', she'll be talking about her time on the programme and sharing insights that she has learned along the way about running and marketing a small business.

Katie's background is as an award-winning personal trainer and her company promotes fitness and well-being. She is a firm believer that being physically fit yourself can only help when it comes to being a small business owner: "When

Herts LEP focuses on boosting science labs

Bid to develop world-class capabilities

IN LAST month's Business Supplement we were pleased to share with you the linkages between HM Government's Green Paper "Building our Industrial Strategy" and our own strategic priorities for Hertfordshire.

We have since published both our revised Strategic Economic Plan (SEP) and our response to the Green Paper.

Here we outline the key emergent themes and how we are strongly placed to build our own Industrial Strategy for Hertfordshire that plays to our strengths and local expertise.

Challenges

Our revised Strategic Economic Plan (SEP) and Industrial Strategy response set out very clearly how we are addressing the challenges identified in the Government's Green Paper.

These can be summarised as:

- Building on our strengths;
- Ensuring that every place meets its potential;
- Closing the gap between our best performing companies, industries, places and people.

So what have we achieved so far? Hertfordshire LEP has earned a reputation as a credible delivery partner following the successful delivery of Growth Deal projects which have the capacity to deliver thousands of new homes and jobs and leverage significant further private-public sector investment.

Herts LEP is investing in The University of Hertfordshire's Knowledge Innovation Centre for Science

Our strategic priorities play to our key sector strengths in advanced engineering and manufacturing, life sciences, information technology and the creative industries.

We now have pipeline opportunities to develop our world-class research capabilities such as our investment in the Daniel Hall Innovation Centre at Rothamsted Research and the University of Hertfordshire's Knowledge Innovation Centre for Science.

And in relation to place we together with our key partners are starting to tackle the regeneration challenges to revitalise our new towns, such as Stevenage.

Hertfordshire is exceptionally well placed to make a significant contribution to the UK's productivity. As our Economic Overview demonstrates, Hertfordshire's economy is performing well overall.

However the county still faces some major challenges such as in relation to the demand for skills in a tightening labour market. It is these issues that both our SEP and Industrial Strategy response are seeking to address.

In our response to the Government's Green Paper we set out our agenda for action which would help us to spearhead the delivery of a modern industrial strategy for Hertfordshire. We look forward to sharing how this progresses over the coming weeks and months.

'Lower duty rates would encourage people to move'

Agent calls for cut in property tax to help economy

LEADING local estate agent Mullucks Wells has backed calls for a dramatic cut to stamp duty across all property price brackets.

In recent days, calls for a reduction in the levy paid by those buying property have come from a Cabinet minister, a special advisor to David Cameron, and North East Somerset MP Jacob Rees-Mogg.

Their comments follow the publication of a report by the London School of Economics (LSE) and the VAT Institute for Economic Research, which indicated that stamp duty reduces the rate of house moves by nearly a third, preventing large homes from being freed-up for young, growing families.

William Wells is the residential director at Mullucks Wells, which has offices in Bishop's Stortford, Saffron Walden, Great Dunmow and Epping. He said: "What the recent research suggests is what we've been saying for years. The simple truth is that lower rates of stamp duty would encourage people to move, which in itself would mean a larger, rather than smaller tax take for the Treasury. In fact, the report from the LSE indicates that the rate of home moving would rise by 27% if stamp duty was abolished entirely.

"Now we're not expecting the Chancellor to go that far. Instead, we feel that a top rate of 5% would be more than enough, with a 3% levy applied to all other price bands above £250,000. This would take most first-time buyers and some downsizers purchasing smaller properties out of the tax entirely, thus freeing up the property market, and allowing people to move again."

Slice

Research has shown that home sales are 11% lower than they were before the last stamp duty reforms in 2014, which replaced the old 'slab' system with a 'slice' approach to taxation.

The impact was felt most severely at the top of the market, where a 12% levy was applied to transactions above £1.5m.

William Wells added: "Only 20 years ago, the top rate of stamp duty in the UK was a mere 1%. Since then, it's gone through a 1,100% hike!

Instead, the Government needs to understand that most property moves are discretionary – in that they are something that people choose to do, rather than have to carry out. But they will refuse to do so if the costs of moving are prohibitively expensive.

"Significant stamp duty reform would provide a much-needed boost to the housing market, as well as increasing income for the Exchequer and is something that the Chancellor Philip Hammond should seriously consider in his forthcoming Autumn Budget."

► Jazz & Pimm's at the Park ◀

In aid of Alzheimer's Research UK

Mantle Business Centres is pleased to present Jazz at the Park, an evening of great music and incredible vibes, in support of Alzheimer's Research UK, the UK's leading dementia research charity. Dementia affects a huge proportion of the population - one in three people over 65 in the UK will die with some form of the condition. We are proud to be joining the effort to defeat dementia sooner. The event will take place on Thursday 7th September 2017 at Thremhall Park Business Centre in the Walled Garden from 6pm to 9pm. Tickets are £15 each, which includes canapés and a glass of Pimm's. All proceeds will go to Alzheimer's Research UK. There will also be a raffle. You are invited to come along and build new connections and listen to some great Jazz, whilst helping to raise money for a very worthy cause.

This event is proudly sponsored by Price Bailey chartered accountants and business advisers. Over the past 12 months, the firm has organised a number of events for Alzheimer's Research UK.

The firm is now embarking on the second year of the partnership with the charity. James King, CSR Partner at Price Bailey, said: "We are absolutely delighted after raising £37,500 for Alzheimer's Research UK in our first year of the partnership. While we haven't set an overall target, this figure completely exceeds our expectations and we can't wait to see what the total will be at the end of the two years. Everyone at Price Bailey has really got behind the fundraising and it's clear that it is a charity close to many people's hearts. Most people know someone affected by dementia, which is why I think people have been so determined to do their bit."

Jess Sayer, Regional Fundraising Officer at Alzheimer's Research UK, said: "This is going to be a fantastic event and we hope lots of people can make it along to help raise vital funds for Alzheimer's Research UK. We're incredibly grateful to Mantle Business Centres for organising the fundraiser, along with Price Bailey, one of our charity partners, for sponsoring it. Thanks to support like this, we are able to fund pioneering research which will help us to defeat dementia and one day bring an end to the fear, harm and heartbreak caused by the devastating condition."

Help your business to make its mark

A TRADE mark is essentially a sign used to identify and distinguish the goods and services of one business from that of another, and can be registered (R) or unregistered (TM).

The types of mark that can be protected include words (eg. Tesco); designs (eg. the Apple logo); the shape of goods or their packaging (eg. the Coca Cola bottle); internet domain names (eg. Confused.com); and slogans (eg. 'I'm lovin' it' for McDonalds).

Why register a trade mark?

Registration of trade marks gives the owner the exclusive right (which can potentially last forever) to use the mark in connection with the goods or services in the country in which they operate.

The registered owner can authorise or licence others to use the trade mark and can sue any third party for trade mark infringement if there is unauthorised use of an identical or similar mark used where those goods or services are likely to cause confusion.

Conversely, if a mark is unregistered, the owner must rely on a passing off action to prevent infringement of the mark. These types of lawsuits are notoriously time consuming, expensive and difficult to prove.

How can I ensure that my trade mark has the best chances of being registered?

In order to be registered, a Trade Mark must be distinctive so it is capable of distinguishing the goods or services of one business from those of another.

Generally, Marks will be refused where they are descriptive of the goods or services which they seek to cover (eg. "the best window company"); or where the term has become customary in current language or within a particular industry.

There are also grounds for refusal where a proposed mark is identical or similar to an earlier mark which has already been registered, and where there is a likelihood of confusion.

How do I register a trade mark?

To avoid any issues arising, it is very important to undertake searches before applying for registration, to ensure that your proposed mark is not going to clash with something already registered. Even if there are similar marks registered, there can sometimes be alternative options available.

The UK is due to exit the EU in March 2019

Council's deputy leader is selected for Brexit group

Councillor feels local governments should have a voice in talks

ESSEX could play a vital role in influencing the UK's Brexit negotiations after ECC's deputy leader was chosen to chair a group championing the interests of UK councils.

Cllr Kevin Bentley, also Essex County Council's Cabinet Member for Economic Growth, Skills, Infrastructure and Digital Economy, will lead the Local Government Association's Brexit Task and Finish Group.

Cllr Bentley, who will also represent English councils on the committee, said: "I'm honoured to have been appointed chairman of the LGA group, where I can fly the flag for Essex and local government nationwide to ensure central Government delivers the best possible Brexit deal.

"While it's clear the Government wants to ensure Britain can continue to thrive in the post-Brexit world, much of that devolved power and funding could be handed to the people on the ground who can make a real difference.

"Local councils, including Essex, understand their economies and communities better than anyone at a national level, so we must make sure we are heard in Westminster to negotiate a deal that is driven by local priorities."

Essex County Council has been monitoring the risks and opportunities facing Essex, and is already working with the LGA and County Council Network (CCN) to lobby Government.

On top of that, ECC is undertaking research to define the priorities of a local authority driven UK growth programme, which would replace EU funding after 2020.

"The Essex economy has the entrepreneurial spirit and potential to drive growth post-Brexit, therefore we must create the right conditions for businesses to thrive," added Cllr Bentley.

"A UK growth programme would support local business growth and invest in local employment and skills provision to develop and retain the right workforce for the jobs on offer, particularly into sectors which rely on EU nationals and which support the UK's forthcoming Industrial Strategy.

"Essex is open for business and now we have a fantastic opportunity to influence Brexit to ensure local firms are able to secure new export markets both within and beyond the EU."

Cllr Bentley replaces Cllr David Simmonds as chair, after he was appointed leader of the Conservatives on the LGA.

Insurers' joint venture may not be good thing for competition

Bid to create new general insurance firm is greeted with 'cautious optimism'

THE recent announcement that Allianz Insurance and Liverpool Victoria have created a joint venture creating the UK's third largest general insurer should be greeted with cautious optimism in my opinion.

German-based Allianz will buy an initial 49 per cent stake in LV's general insurance business, which will rise to 70 per cent in 2019.

Allianz has announced that this decision signals their intention to mount an assault on the UK's personal lines insurance market and that the increase scale combined with LV's mutual brand will make them a powerful competitor.

All I see is two insurance companies becoming one, effectively removing one element of competition and in the long term forcing price increases for the insurance buying public.

I suspect that we will see an initial reduction in pricing as Allianz flex their new more powerful financial muscles and as other insurers react to protect market-share, however in the long-term a reduction in insurance company numbers can only mean a reduction in competition and an increase in pricing.

The number of insurers operating in the personal lines sector has been steadily decreasing over the last ten years.

There is no doubt that some of the catastrophic weather events in recent years have forced some smaller insurers out of the market and the recent announcements regarding the change to long-term personal injury payments has done similar.

The resulting outcome means less choice for the consumer, less competition for the insurers and dare I say it less a drop in service standards from the insurance companies.

Process to name praise-worthy companies closing

NOMINATIONS for the Essex Business Excellence Awards are quickly coming to a close.

Local businesses have just a few days to get their last-minute applications in before the process closes at midnight on Friday.

The categories, which celebrate the sheer breadth of business talent in the region, have been hand-selected to ensure complete inclusivity.

So, whether your business has a team of strong leaders, whether your retail outlet has reached new sales records earning bragging rights, or if your business has demonstrated unrivalled innovation or technology advancements in the past 12 months, there is a category for you.

Coveted

The most coveted award on the night is the Company of the Year category, sponsored by Wortley Byers Law, which represents a business that has gone above and beyond and can be admired universally for their dedication to success.

As well as the Leadership Team of the Year, Retail Business of the Year, Excellence in Innovation & Technology and Company of the Year accolade, other categories include:

- Small Business of the Year
- New Business of the Year
- Business Entrepreneur of the Year
- Not-for-Profit Organisation Award
- Contribution to the Community Award
- Sales and Marketing Award
- Services Award
- Creative Communications & Digital Business of the Year
- Customer Service Excellence Award

The shortlisted finalists of each category will not only be in the running for one of the region's most acclaimed awards, but will also benefit from a number of other opportunities including: coverage in local papers, the chance to gain extensive recognition for their hard work and achievements over last 12 months and access to the awards dinner which provides excellent networking opportunities.

Don't miss out on your chance to get involved with this year's Essex Business Excellence Awards. Visit www.essexbusinessexcellenceawards.co.uk to enter now.

The judging

With any awards ceremony of this prestige, the judging process is taken extremely seriously which is why the judging panel – formed by the category sponsors – have four weeks to select their three finalists, during which time they will also have the opportunity to meet with the category applicants to assist them in their decision-making process.

Applicants will then be contacted by mid-October as to whether they have been successful or not.

FOOD & DRINK

IF YOU want a quick pick me up, these delicious fish chops should do the trick.

Chetna tucked into these in Kolkata while researching her new book.

Just be sure to have a host of chutneys to dunk them in, and a lot of Sichuan sauce...

INGREDIENTS

3 large eggs; 300g skinless cod fillets; 1 onion, finely chopped; handful of fresh coriander leaves, finely chopped; 2 garlic cloves, finely chopped; 2 small green chillies, finely chopped; ½ tsp salt; sunflower oil, for deep-frying; sea salt flakes
For the coating: 2 eggs, lightly beaten 100g golden breadcrumbs

METHOD

1. Put the large eggs into a small saucepan, cover with water and boil for 10 minutes. Drain and leave to cool, then shell the eggs and mash them in a bowl.
2. In a food processor, blitz the cod to a coarse paste. Add the fish to the mashed eggs, along with the onion, coriander, garlic, chillies and salt. Mix thoroughly so the flavours are well combined.

3. Shape the mixture into 15 balls about the size of a lemon, then press to flatten slightly. Dip each one in the beaten egg, then roll in the breadcrumbs until fully coated.

4. Heat enough oil for deep-frying in a deep-fat fryer or heavy saucepan (ensuring the pan is no more than one-third full) to 170-180°C.

5. Line a plate with some kitchen paper.

6. Fry the chops a few at a time for about two minutes, until they are cooked through and golden. Transfer to the paper-lined plate and leave to drain excess oil while you fry the remaining chops.
7. Season with sea salt flakes and serve warm with your choice of sauce or chutney.

A street food sensation

Great British Bake Off star Chetna Makan tells ELLA WALKER about tackling the colourful and tasty world of Indian food

DON'T expect to find your standard chicken tikka masala and bhaji recipes in Chetna Makan's new cookbook, because she doesn't do the expected.

In her first cookbook, The Cardamom Trail, the 2014 Great British Bake Off contestant explored how to use Indian spices in baking, and now her second recipe collection, Chai, Chaat & Chutney, takes an even more interesting tack.

Packed with fresh, fast street food, it's crowded with dishes best eaten with your hands, straight from the fryer and in twisted paper cones; dishes that Chetna couldn't get enough of while munching her way around India for research.

"After The Cardamom Trail, I wanted to do something which is more my passion and my growing up; that showed a bit of where I come from," she explains. "People think Indian street food is limited to the three or four dishes that we all hear about, like panipuri (hollow, deep fried crispy dough filled with sour, spicy water), and I wanted to show there's so much more."

But with a country the size of India, which has a population of more than 1.3 billion, and all of those people eating, cooking, trawling markets, frying fish and snacking on street corners – how do you go about distilling such an incredible cacophony of foodie goodness?

"I actually didn't know where to start because there's so much," admits Chetna, who lives in Broadstairs, Kent with her husband and two children.

"It's a massive country – different cuisine everywhere – so I thought, 'OK, I'm just going to pick the four big cities and focus on that'."

The big four – Mumbai, Chennai, Delhi and Kolkata – she explains, each have their own signature foods and flavours.

Mumbai's "a very metropolitan city, so takes food from everywhere in the country, but it's got its own really distinctive dishes, like vada pav (deep fried potato balls) and dabeli (spiced potato and chutney wedged in a bread roll)".

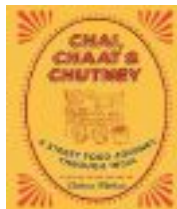

Chennai is "very big on South Indian food, there's lots of coconut, lentils, rice, and the typical dosas (savoury pancakes)".

In Delhi, people "eat very heavy, they really specialise in flatbreads", while in Kolkata you can expect "lots of fish".

Chetna studied fashion design in Mumbai before moving to the UK in 2003, so aside from noticing a surge in Chinese influenced dishes, the food she encountered on her trip wasn't "such a surprise". "I was like, 'That tastes delicious, yeah, yeah, yeah, I've eaten that hundreds of times', but in Kolkata it was like, 'Oh my God, this is amazing'."

She'd only been to Kolkata, which sits on the Bay of Bengal in East India, when she was tiny, and couldn't remember anything she'd eaten on that childhood trip, but this time around, she went big on rice and lentils topped with crispy slivers of fried fish. "It's my favourite chapter in the book – I absolutely loved the food."

What all four cities do have in common, is how kaleidoscopic their street food stalls and markets are compared to Britain's.

"They're very, very different," says Chetna with a laugh.

"There's more colour and life, it's all haphazard (in India)."

Chetna started cooking as a child, following her mum around the kitchen, helping to chop and stir, before confecting birthday cakes for her own children got her addicted to baking.

She's decided she'll definitely give the new Bake Off on Channel 4 "a go" but admits, "If I don't like it, I won't continue".

Straight-talking, to a point just shy of blunt, Chetna's counsel for this year's baking hopefuls is: "You have to find your strength and stick with it, that's my only advice. That's what I did. I didn't think I had to do things a certain way, or think, 'I have to do this traditional English thing'. I knew my spices, I knew my stuff and I just stuck with that."

It's certainly paid off.

THE other day I was randomly browsing a wine aisle creating a mid-aisle trolley hazard, when I spotted Morrisons The Best Pecorino and went a bit light-headed.

I was drawn to it because a) it is from the Abruzzo region in Italy which I've just visited; b) it has a picture of a sheep on the label, and c) it isn't pinot grigio. There is complete logic in my ABC so let me explain.

I bet many of you will have tasted the Italian reds labelled Montepulciano d'Abruzzo.

They can be hit and miss but speaking to the producers in their wineries I discovered that Abruzzo wines bottled outside the region can have little essence and personality due to the bulk processes involved.

RAISE A GLASS

To taste the wines bottled in situ was fantastic, some were divine. My eyes were opened sipping these reds in the region in which they're born.

Another eye-opener was the white wine. Italian whites can be oh-so-so but Abruzzo's pecorino, passerina and trebbiano were fresh, zingy, often tropical, often citrusy, sometimes complex.

Back to my ABC and that Pecorino (I paid £8, prices may vary, 13% abv). I was giddy at the sheep label because in Abruzzo a winemaker told me the grape is so-called because sheep (pecora) eat the grapes as they're herded over the hillsides. I'd also been seeking a white to encourage a friend to stop reaching for pinot grigio and no other white wine.

"I love it" she said, as peachy and zesty notes won her heart.

Here are some Abruzzo wines you can seek out.

■ Cotesa Pecorino 2016 (£9.75, thewinesociety.com, 12.5%abv): A white wine with inviting aromas of summer flowers – freesias maybe – with lemons and a dash of dried honey with a lively acidity and citrus flavours. A perfect sunshine wine.

■ Abruzzo Cococciola Frentana 2016 (£11, Bat and Bottle, batwine.uk, 12.5% abv):

Cococciola is a grape new to me, though I'll be seeking it out again. Lime and lemons are a zesty tease on the nose, together with spring flowers on a breeze. The citrus flavours are refreshing, the acidity not too demanding. It's a wine nicely in balance and calling out for a seafood platter.

■ Montepulciano d'Abruzzo 2015 Masciarelli (£11.99, or £9.99 in a mix six deal at Majestic, 13% abv): Pepper and spice and all plummy things nice. I love this wine, with its aroma notes of dry wood, cherries, damsons and black pepper. In the mouth black fruit and cherry are centre stage, the tannins aren't overpowering and the acidity isn't too racy. I'll have a steak please.

■ Montepulciano d'Abruzzo Vigna Corvino, 2015 (£7.95, thewinesociety.com, 12.5% abv):

The nose speaks freshly picked hedgerow fruits, ripe and juicy, and a dalliance with spice. The acidity is medium and the tannins are drying but not too much. The fruit is young, fresh and pleasing. A lovely glass to drink with friends as you wait for the pizza to cook.

THESE morsels are spicy, crispy and have a "lovely sour flavour within", says Chetna.

"I first had them in London, at the house of my friend Sudhakar, who is very keen on street food and remembers them from his hometown.

"They make a lovely party canape, or snack served with a cup of tea."

We don't need any more encouragement than that.

A QUICK, savoury fix required? "These super-crispy snacks are available all over India from little street-side shops and stalls," says Chetna.

"I found the ones readily available in Chennai to be the tastiest, and this recipe is my take on that version."

She says that a variety of chutneys and "a cup of Masala Chai" are essential when eating them.

Do as she says.

60g split chickpeas (chana dal - available from Sainsbury's)
125g rice flour
125g plain flour
1tsp salt
½tsp chilli powder
10 curry leaves, finely chopped
About 120ml water
Sunflower oil, for deep-frying
Sea salt flakes
Chutney of your choice, to serve (optional)

METHOD

1. Put the split chickpeas in a bowl, cover with water and leave to soak for one hour. Drain the split chickpeas,

NICE & CRISPY

RICE AND
DAL PAPDI
(MAKES 50-60)

then grind them to a rough paste using a food processor, adding one tablespoon of water if necessary to achieve a rough, thick paste that isn't too runny.

2. Put the ground chickpeas, the rice flour, plain flour, salt, chilli powder and curry leaves into a large bowl and mix well. Very gradually mix in just enough of the measured water (or a little more, if necessary), a few drops at a time, to bring the mixture together into a soft dough. Cover the bowl with cling film and leave to rest for 30 minutes.

3. Fill a deep-fat fryer or large saucepan with enough sunflower oil to deep-fry the papdi (ensuring the pan is no more than one-third full) and heat it to 190°C. Line a plate with kitchen paper.

4. Take small portions of the dough, roughly the size of a grape, and roll them into thin discs with a diameter of 5cm.

5. Working in batches, fry the papdi for two to three minutes, until golden brown.

6. Remove with a slotted spoon and transfer the papdi to the paper-lined plate to drain excess oil while you fry the remaining dough.

7. Leave to cool, then season with sea salt flakes and serve with the chutney of your choice.

FAMILY HOME IN CHURCH LANGLEY

HOT HOUSE

THE PERFECT FAMILY HOME IN QUIET SPOT

This two-bedroom home in Church Langley would suit a young family or make an excellent investment

This two bedroom, mid-terrace house in the popular and quiet area of Church Langley, Harlow, would be a perfect home for young families, or an excellent investment for buy-to-let landlords.

On the market for offers in excess of £279,999, the property offers plenty of space with two large double bedrooms, two allocated parking spaces, family bathroom and a separate downstairs WC.

Downstairs, a large combined lounge and dining area with attached conservatory leads onto a spacious patio area and low-maintenance garden, providing excellent, extensive space for entertaining.

The living space comes complete with two sets of french doors — leading from the lounge into the panoramic, hardwood-floored conservatory and then out onto the patio — bathing the interior in natural light.

At the front of the house, a good-sized kitchen complete with ample cupboard space and splash back tiles leads off from the airy entrance hall.

The house, which is being marketed by Guardian Residential Lettings & Sales, is just a few minutes walk away from the Henry Moore Primary School and a ten minute walk to the Church Langley Community Primary School, both of which are rated 'Good' by Ofsted.

The family home boasts excellent transport links, with close proximity to the M11 and nearby Harlow Town Station guaranteeing an easy life for commuters.

Endless opportunities for recreational and sporting activities are on offer at the nearby Lee Valley Park, while Harlow itself is home to numerous shopping areas, green spaces, cultural institutions and, as the world's first 'Sculpture Town', plenty of public art with sculpture trails and tours.

For more information call Guardian Sales on 01279 635 685.

YOUR HOME

It's time to party

You can dazzle your guests with just a few delicate touches. GABRIELLE FAGAN asks the experts for their top decorating flourishes

Summer gatherings can be the most memorable of the year, especially if they're spontaneous, relaxed and filled with special touches and decorating ideas that your friends and family won't forget.

"When it comes to decorating for a party, it's not about playing super hostess or laying out the best china or the most expensive crystal," says Holly Becker, who with Leslie Shewring has put together a brilliant guide to decor for all occasions, Decorate For A Party.

"It's about creating a little magic and hosting joyful celebrations in your own home, where you can do as you please and really be imaginative about your look.

"Most important is adding character and love with creative, thoughtful and fun decor, as guests feel important, cherished and welcome."

SUMMER SOIREE

"We love a soft tactile look, which is a warm mix of organic materials and textures, handmade details and a touch of vintage glass," says Holly.

"This elegant style would be perfect for an indoor or outdoor evening, maybe to celebrate a forthcoming wedding or simply just to mark summer and all its pleasures.

"Aim for a calm palette of chalky, bleached colours, plenty of flowers in clear glass vases and plain white or strikingly patterned cloths for tables.

"For a more rustic feel, leave wooden tables plain and allow glassware to star."

■ Tip: Tie single blooms to individual napkins with ribbon and harmonise by laying more lengths of ribbon down the centre of a table to create a focal point. Wrap party cutlery in beautiful pieces of fabric (use off-cuts) that could double as napkins.

NATURE'S TABLE

"We love the challenge of creating something special and memorable out of very little and keeping an overall look inexpensive and relatively simple to prep," says Holly.

"Being inspired by nature and using foliage, leaves and

Rice DK disco ball, silver, large, £28, and gold medium, £25, from Printer and Tailor (printerandtailor.com)

Glitterati disco range paper plates, 12 pack, £5.49; disco ball, £13.99; party poppers, pack of eight, £6.99, Talking Tables (talkingtables.com)

LSA International Moya Grand Design champagne serving set, 12 glasses, £250, Black By Design (black-by-design.co.uk)

plants is a lovely way to bring flair to a summer dinner party. This can conjure a country garden atmosphere, or for a more exotic look, use tropical foliage. Add gold details by using a metallic pen to write guests names or messages on large, glossy leaves."

■ Tip: Make a striking centrepiece by placing a single large tropical leaf in a clear glass cylinder vase filled with water. A group of three vases will look effective. Use plain brown wrapping paper to make a wall poster menu; write details of the courses in black and pin to the wall with a tiny posy on each corner.

AFTER DARK

"Nothing says party more than the disco ball," says Clare Harris, managing director at Talking Tables. "A celebratory classic since the Seventies, the disco ball has come of age, featuring on paper plates as well as disco ball-shaped cups.

Party illuminations light box sign, £21.03, with 73 plastic letters, numbers and symbols to create own message (www.etsy.com)

"Glittering foil curtains (gold or silver, £8.49) are another party classic that have made a comeback, creating the perfect Instagram-worthy backdrop for your party pics.

"Frankly, cocktail parties are not the time to be a minimalist – layer up your bar and table with gold foil straws, party poppers and photo booth props, then bring the look up-to-date with a plug-in neon light or light box to show guests exactly what to expect from their evening."

■ Tip: Don't forget to organise games – they're a great way to break the ice. Talking Tables has Prosecco Pong, £14.99, where players attempt to throw or hit ping pong balls into glasses of Prosecco, and opponents must drink the contents of any glass in which a ball lands.

■ Decorate for a Party: Stylish and Simple Ideas for Meaningful Gatherings by Holly Becker and Leslie Shewring is published by Jacqui Small, £20.

Jar candles made special with meaningful words written on the sides with a craft glass pen. The look is simple and very pretty.

PROPERTY TALK

With Nigel Lewis

THE KID'S IS ALRIGHT

Singer and rapper Kid Rock revels in his hard-partying image. He's hit the headlines for an arrest following a restaurant brawl, a sex tape and a messy divorce from Pamela Anderson.

He's also written and performed songs about drug use, excessive drinking and sexual exploits with prostitutes, strippers and Hollywood starlets.

It therefore came as a shock to many when the self-described redneck announced plans to run for the US Senate; although under state law he'll have to use his real name on the ballot: Robert James Ritchie.

Rock is also just about to release new singles, but his bid for political glory in Michigan isn't deemed to be a money-making publicity stunt. Indeed, Rock has amassed plenty of cash during his musical career; he's worth about $80m, has given seven-figure sums to charity and even capped ticket prices to his concerts at $20 to make them accessible to working-class fans.

Badboy performer Kid Rock

An outspoken conservative, he endorsed Mitt Romney for President during his 2012 campaign.

Although he lives most of the time in his camouflage-painted, large mobile home overlooking Nashville on 68 acres of mountainside, Rock has bought properties in Detroit, Nashville, Jupiter Beach, Florida and a Balinese-style home in Point Dume, Malibu, where he and Sean Penn, who lived next door, became friends.

He recently sold the Point Dume estate, a 1.5-acre property, obscured by privacy hedges and gates, for $9.5m - $2.1m less than he paid for it back in 2006.

Sound investment

Athletes from Team GB have been defending their lack of podium finishes at the World Championships. Mo Farah aside, there were relatively few golden moments for us to get excited about on the track in London earlier this month.

Certainly, there was little to rival the drama of the 1924 Paris Olympics when extraordinary British runners Eric Liddell and Harold Abrahams scooped gold medals, immortalised in the film Chariots of Fire.

Their story inspired Greek musician Vangelis to compose the soundtrack, which scooped an Academy Award for Best Original Score in 1981.

Evangelos Odysseas Papathanassiou, better known as Vangelis, began his musical career working with pop bands in the 1960s. He's released more than 50 albums and scored other notable films including Ridley Scott's sci-fi classic Blade Runner.

Vangelis used to live in London, and his former first floor one-bedroom apartment there is up for sale. Rather fittingly, it's just minutes away from the Royal Albert Hall, and boasts a huge reception room which was the original house's former ballroom, and currently houses a grand piano.

The Kensington period town house in Queen's Gate has stacks of architectural features and period details, including Corinthian columns, marble fireplaces and French windows.

It also has a private study, kitchen and guest cloakroom and is on the market for £4.5m. Call harrodsestates.com, 0207 893 8044 for details.

The property has its own balcony

Nora Batty's fierce personality, with her wrinkled stockings, hair rollers and scowl, helped make Last of the Summer Wine become the world's longest-running sitcom.

Actress Kathy Staff starred as Nora in the first show in January 1973 and when Compo (Bill Owen) died in 1999, Staff announced plans to leave.

She was persuaded to stay and, apart from a brief spell in the revived ITV soap Crossroads, continued to play the character until shortly before her death aged 80 in 2008.

Two years later, all the characters were finally put out to pasture when the show ended.

Kathy lived in this four-bedroom

Kathy Staff as Nora

OWN NORA BATTY'S RURAL RETREAT

detached house in Daisy Nook, Manchester, an extended farmhouse built in the 1650s. The refurbished property, near Daisy Nook Country Park, sits in extensive grounds with a brook running through it, and has a paddock, tiered gardens and orchard. It has a conservatory, orangery, master bedroom with large dressing room, and detached double garage.

Priced at £800,000, let's hope it sells a bit quicker than her TV home in Holmfirth, Yorkshire, which took 10 years to find a new buyer.

One of the best-known pieces of television history, Nora's cottage spent a decade on the market. It's now owned by Richard and Loretta Skelton who rent it out to fans of the show.

See purplebricks.co.uk for further details.

Samuel Johnson took eight years to compile his Dictionary of the English Language.

A journalist, he was commissioned to write the book by a group of printers. Published in April 1755, although it wasn't the first dictionary, it was certainly the most important example at that time.

Johnson set out on a three-month tour of the Scottish Highlands in 1773, writing an account of his travels.

However, one residence - an A-listed Georgian building on the secluded Hebridean island of Coll - incurred the writer's wrath. He was driven from Breachacha Castle by its fierce weather, describing the castle as a "tradesman's box" and living on Coll "a waste of life".

The six-bedroom home, built in 1750, was the seat of the Lairds of Coll until 1944, and is now up for sale for just:

£450,000. The catch is that it needs a huge amount of TLC; New Breachacha Castle is only partially lived in at the moment, with just the top two floors being habitable, while the wings and pavilions need complete renovation.

For more details visit bellingham.co.uk, or call 01631 566122.

JOHNSON HAD HARSH WORDS FOR CASTLE

ELIOT'S POETRY IN MANSION

The first wife of poet and playwright TS Eliot refused to accept that their marriage was over, and convinced herself that he'd been kidnapped, her recently published diary reveals.

Vivienne Haigh-Wood, who suffered from mental health problems, was devastated when their relationship ended in 1933, and stalked him at Faber & Faber's offices, where he worked as an editor.

US-born Thomas Stearns Eliot settled in the UK during 1915 and worked as a teacher before joining the publishers where he promoted home-grown poets including W.H. Auden, Stephen Spender, and Ted Hughes.

TS Eliot called Crawford Mansions home

His unhappy first marriage was said to have inspired The Waste Land, one of the 20th century's greatest poems. The couple lived in London's Crawford Mansions from 1916 to 1918, shortly after he wrote The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock, the poem that made him famous. Eliot used the flat as a pied-à-terre after moving to Buckinghamshire.

Surrounded by slums, Marylebone wasn't an attractive postcode during the poet's residence, it was noisy and in Vivienne's own words, their home was: "the tiniest place imaginable".

However, at the time, Crawford Mansions was a newly built, five-storey residence that boasted "every modern convenience", including constant hot water, a great luxury.

A two-bedroom apartment in the block is now on the market for £995,000, with family bathroom, reception room and separate kitchen with access to a balcony. See kayandco.com, 0203 930 5272.

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

It's the time of year for hedge trimming, so here are my top tips for doing a perfect job

As we approach the end of August, it's a great time to give your evergreen hedges a final trim. This way you will have a fresh looking but tidy hedge through the winter.

Cutting now allows time for plants to harden off, so whether you've got a privet, box, leyland cypress, holly, laurel, yew, viburnum, thuja or Lawson's cypress, here's my handy guide.

WHAT EQUIPMENT DO YOU NEED?

Hand-held shears if sufficiently sharp will be fine for smaller jobs and are my preferred option for jobs that require precision such as clipping box balls. However, bigger hedges will benefit from some power tools. If you are using an electric trimmer, always use an RCD – this is a circuit breaker that will automatically disconnect the electricity should you accidentally cut through the cable.

A safer option is a battery operated cordless device – these are light-weight and with lithium batteries can keep going long enough to get the job done. There are also petrol-powered trimmers but these tend to be a bit heavier. Either way, it's a good idea to wear protective clothing for hands, ears and eyes. And put a tarp or bit of plastic down to collect the clippings which can go straight to the compost heap afterwards.

WHAT SHAPE DO YOU WANT TO ACHIEVE?

A wedge shape or flat topped 'A' shape is best for hedges – in other words, you want the base to be a bit wider than the top, so it should taper

Cutting hedge style for bushes

Whether you have a small border or a huge rockery a little effort now will keep things tidy through the winter months

You will probably need power tools for big hedges but hand shears are great for tidying small shrubs slowly inwards. This is also known as putting a 'batter' on a hedge. The reason for this is to allow sunlight to get to the lower part of the hedge preventing it from becoming bare stemmed. Battered hedges are also less likely to suffer snow damage.

Of course you may not want a flat top and prefer a dome shape. This is trickier to manage but a cardboard template of the shape you like is a good way to achieve this, moving the template along the top of the hedge as you proceed.

HEIGHT IS ANOTHER CONSIDERATION

There are regulations when a solid evergreen hedge climbs over two metres as this can cause light or view deprivation to your neighbours, so keep this in mind.

If you share a boundary hedge with a neighbour both of you are responsible for its upkeep, but you aren't allowed to clip any part of the hedge that falls on your neighbour's side without permission.

Equally, if a neighbour's hedge is overhanging your garden, you are entitled to remove any branches that are straying across the boundary.

Be careful when trimming conifers that you don't cut back into old wood – they don't rejuvenate from old wood and you'll be left with bare patches. Yews are the exception to this rule – they can be cut back hard if you deem it necessary – but such a hard

A simple check will tell you if those corn cobs are ready

JOBS FOR THE WEEK

■ It's harvest time for loads of crops, so catch fruit and veg at their best, either for eating now or storing for the winter. Onions are ready when the foliage starts drooping over. You can tell if sweetcorn is ripe by squeezing a kernel to see if milky juices come out.

■ Finish pruning apple trees that are fan, cordon or espalier.

■ Dry weather is great for getting any paint jobs done such as sheds, fences or furniture that need a facelift. Is it time to try out a new colour scheme?

■ Look after pond life – keep water levels topped up, remove blanket weed and cut back yellow foliage on pond plants.

■ Watering and feeding remains a top priority, especially for pots, troughs, hanging baskets and containers.

While the weather's dry give sheds and fences a fresh coat of paint

Watch out for nests when you are trimming a hedge prune would be better done in spring anyway.

If you're growing a conifer hedge and it hasn't achieved the desired height, don't cut the leader shoots at the top yet as this will stifle growth. Just clip the side of the hedge.

When clipping cherry laurel (Prunus laurocerasus), you might notice that because it has large leaves, some of these get cut in half. It's a good idea to then go over the hedge with secateurs and remove these as they will develop a black margin which spoils the look of a hedge.

FINALLY: REMEMBER THE BIRDS

For them a hedge can be a home and a nesting place. The Royal Society for the Protection of Birds recommends leaving hedges alone from March to August which is the main nesting season.

But it is an offence at any time of the year to intentionally destroy the nest of any wild bird while it is in use.

PLANT OF THE WEEK

LYCHNIS FLOS-CUCULI 'JENNY'

Lychnis, or ragged robin, is one of my favourite native wildflowers. You'll spot its delicate "ragged" pink blossoms in damp meadows in the countryside.

Sadly it is on the decline due to the draining of marshes and bogs, but you can enjoy this cultivated version in your borders.

Jenny has a fuller double flower but still retains the delicate attributes of its wild relative.

Grow in sun or partial shade but make sure it doesn't dry out in the summer.

And, as a bonus, butterflies love this plant too.

ASK DIARMUID

Q In my garden I have an apple tree full of fruit (I think Cox's). They look so healthy, so what is the right month to pick them?

Lilian Hulme

A Cox's apples will probably be ready for picking at the end of September or the beginning of October.

They will start to drop by themselves once they are ready, or you can test by gently twisting the apple - if it breaks away from the tree easily it is usually ripe.

TIME TO SPLASH OUT

‘The Range Rover Velar is designed to fill the gap between the Evoque and Sport’

By Ian Donaldson

If you believe some of the stories you read in the papers we'll all be driving pure electric cars before you can say 'diesel's dirty and petrol pollutes'.

Well, panic not if it's a diesel you fancy when number plates change to '67' in September, there are lots to choose from and some are hitting our roads for the first time.

Same goes for petrol power. With the latest pollution-fighting kit on board either fuel can be made clean enough for the most fastidious rule makers and both have years of life left in them.

That's not to say electrical power won't rule the roost one day, just that it's some time off.

Even Volvo – which hit the headlines recently with a pledge to produce only cars with full or partial electric power by 2019 – has just announced a new model driven mostly by diesels, leaving part-battery and petrol to its dearest version.

The XC60 is priced from £37,205 and joins the range as a smaller sibling for the XC90. Most versions will use a 190 horsepower 2.0-litre diesel engine with a modest 133g/km of CO2 from the tailpipe.

And then there's the current European Car of the Year, the Peugeot 3008 which is available with both diesel and petrol engines taking CO2 emissions for a full-sized SUV down to as low as 103g/km – and that equates to a shade over 70mpg.

Prices for the large Peugeot start from £21,955 for the petrol version and £22,985 for the diesel.

Lacking any form of battery assist is the Range Rover Velar, designed to fill the gap between the top selling Evoque and high performance Range Rover Sport. It is priced from £44,830.

It is the most aerodynamic Land Rover yet and the low drag combined with lightweight aluminium construction give the entry level 2.0-litre Velar diesel an official fuel return of 52.5mpg.

Likely biggest seller of all the new cars is the latest Fiesta – Ford's small hatch has topped the UK sales charts for the last eight years, after all. The new one stretches at the moment from 70 horsepower petrol £12,715 Style to 120 horsepower diesel £21,225 Vignale.

The exterior has grown very modestly but the biggest change by far is a new and more up to date interior. Most new Fiestas will use versions of the established 1.0-litre three-cylinder unit in differing outputs.

Rather faster than the Fiesta is Kia's first high performance GT model – the Stinger – with a top speed of 167mph. It will be the fastest car so far produced by the Korean brand when it appears before the year's end. Kia is targeting a 0 to 60mph performance of 5.1 seconds.

With Renault blazing a trail on the SUV scene, the new and larger Koleos is of similar proportions to the likes of the Audi Q5 and Land Rover Discovery. Priced from £27,500, the six model range topping out at £34,200. Just two engines are available – 1.6 or 2.0-litre diesels.

Built on a new platform, the latest SEAT Ibiza (from £13,130) has improved back seat legroom and the boot has also been enlarged to 355 litres, making it best in the supermini class.

There is a choice of three petrol 1.0-litre engines at the moment with a 1.5-litre petrol and a duo of diesels on the way.

Hyundai is already well known for its SUVs with the big-selling Santa Fe and Tucson range and from October will introduce the Kona, a smaller family motor aimed at the younger end of the market.

Hottest new kid on the block this autumn is undoubtedly the latest Honda Civic Type R, packing 320 horsepower and a deeply serious approach to going very quickly indeed (up to 169mph where allowed). You can have the hottest Honda hatch and its 320 horsepower from £30,995.

You'll have to wait to the turn of the year for the new Jeep Compass, which will sit in the range above the smaller Renegade. Expect diesels with 1.6 and 2.0-litres capacity and a 1.4-litre petrol.

The Qashqai is the most successful vehicle in Nissan's history in Europe with 2.3 million sales and 19 Car of the Year titles. Now a new-look British-built and designed Qashqai focuses on the key areas of design, quality, technology and performance in its quest to keep the crossover crew trailing in its wake.

With an all-new engine and an eight-speed automatic gearbox in its manifesto Peugeot is also revamping its 308 range of hatchbacks and estates.

Smartened up inside and out the latest 308s come with a bold new face. Prices start at £18,570 – cheaper than before and on average some £650 below current models, says Peugeot.

The Kia Stinger is the Korean brand's first high-performance GT

Sports Coaching

BRENTWOOD RUGBY CLUB UNDER 15S

New players are welcome at Brentwood Rugby Club Under 15 age group (school year 10 from September 2017) at King George's Playing Fields, Ingrave Road, Brentwood.

We guarantee matches for all players with two teams in the Essex leagues and Cup. Coaches are qualified and experienced RFU level 2+ with weekly training sessions.

We cater for all abilities whether you have played before or not, with a development to performance pathway to County and Academy level.

Our focus is for players to play and progress to the standard that they want to, in a safe and friendly environment. Great fun, great friends and an annual rugby tour too!

Summer fitness training is on now, so come and be part of the squad.

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING (ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT)

Veolia ES (Hertfordshire) Ltd is applying for proposed: Demolition of existing buildings and structures associated with existing rail aggregates use and construction and operation of an Energy Recovery Facility for the treatment of municipal, commercial and industrial wastes; importation, storage and transfer of local authority collected healthcare waste together with ancillary infrastructure including administration/visitor centre; incinerator bottom ash storage shed; grid connection compound; car, HGV, bus and visitor parking areas; rail sidings improvements; weighbridges and weighbridge office; 2 portacabin offices; sprinkler tank and pump room; drainage connection to River Lee; security fencing; landscaping and highway improvements to Rattys Lane at 2, Rattys Lane, Hoddesdon, EN11 0RF. This application is accompanied by an Environmental Statement.

Further to a request made by the County Council under Regulation 22 of the Town and Country Planning (Environmental Impact Assessment) Regulations 2011, the applicant has provided further information in relation to the Environmental Statement that accompanied the planning application. In addition, further information has been submitted, specifically relating to flood risk as well as additional information submitted with regard to the Transport Assessment. This has required a number of the planning application documents to be updated by the applicant. Therefore the consultation period has been re-opened and further submissions will be accepted, and existing submissions will continue to be considered.

Members of the public may inspect copies of the application, the plans, the Environmental statement and the other documents submitted with the application at Hertfordshire County Council, County Hall SG13 8DN and at Broxbourne Borough Council, Bishops College, EN8 9XG, during reasonable hours, and also on our website https://www.hertfordshire.gov.uk/services/recycling-waste-and-environment/planning-in-hertfordshire/planning-applications-decisions/planning-applications-decisions.aspx.

All application documents including the Environmental Statement are available to view online. Printed copies of the Environmental Statement and Technical Appendices can be purchased at a cost of £100 each or are available on CD free of charge. In addition, copies of the Non-Technical Summary can be obtained free of charge. Orders for copies of documents should be made to: VeoliaRyehouse@aecom.com or Veolia, Cowley Road, Cambridge, Cambridgeshire, CB4 0DN.

Representation should be sent to Spatial and Land Use Planning Unit, CHN216, Environment Department, County Hall, Pegs Lane, Hertford SG13 8DN, or e-mail spatial.planning@hertfordshire.gov.uk by Thursday 21st September 2017.

24 August 2017.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Application for Planning Permission Accompanied by an Environmental Statement

Notice is hereby given that the following application has been received by Harlow District Council

Planning Application Number: HW/OUTAM/17/00372

Application Type: Outline Application All Matters Reserved

Location: New Frontiers Science Park, Coldharbour Road, Harlow, Essex

Proposed Development: Outline application for up to 115,200 sqm (GIA) of offices, research and development laboratories (Class B1), ancillary facilities, new accesses, landscaping, parking and ancillary works.

Members of the public may inspect copies of the application, the plans, the Environmental Statement and other documents submitted with the application at:

Planning Services, Civic Centre, Harlow

Monday to Friday 9.00 am-4.45 pm

If you are unable to view the plans during these times, you can view them at: www.harlow.gov.uk. If you wish to speak to the Planning Officer concerned, please telephone Mark Philpott on 01279 446867.

Any objections or comments with regard to the application should be sent to the Development Manager within 30 days of the date of this notice, and will be considered by the Council before determination of the application.

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

Familiar faces link to broken promises in the workplace. If you want something done and know you work with someone who has let you down before, then do what is required yourself. You'll save yourself a lot of time and energy, especially on Thursday. You have so many strong traits which you are not using, so try to assert yourself and take control. Call now for a more accurate look at love.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 300 65p PER MINUTE

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

Don't let the planets fool you into believing folk promises this week. Your instincts are spot on, so trust in them. I can see that the last three months have taken their toll on you and left you feeling confused and bewildered. From this week, you begin to see sense and find order in your life. Ring now to hear why I know it's time for many of you to sell up and move on to fresh chapters.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 301 65p PER MINUTE

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

You should by now know what most of your weak points are, but you can also try to learn a few more of your strengths my friend. Your dual nature does at times make it extremely hard for those around you to really understand you and what it is that you are trying to do with your life. Being straight with those close to you this month can turn a dream into a reality. Ring now to hear why.

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

You like to keep an air of mystery about you and that is not a bad thing, but you seem to have your close ones in a state of utter confusion and you are not earning yourself any new supporters. Try to be flexible on Wednesday when last minute plans are indicated to be your best option for fun. Getting a second opinion on emails and letters brings relief. Ring now to be the best version of you.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 303 65p PER MINUTE

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

Love is in the stars for many of your sign and you should finally start to get some sort of an idea about what you want and who can really make you happy. Love comes in strange shapes and forms this week though and a lot of the announcements that you are going to be making are set to both shock and surprise everyone, including you. Ring now to hear why this is a good thing.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 304 65p PER MINUTE

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

You know you hate to be dominated but that is exactly what you are allowing new faces to do. Isn't it my friend? It is time to make a stand before you cast yourself in a light you cannot easily change. House sales and purchases are all forecast to go well at this time. Don't be afraid to hold out for the deal you want and who you deserve. Ring now to hear whose mind messages are simply nerves.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 305 65p PER MINUTE

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

A new face who has recently entered your life is going to be after more than just friendship, so be careful of giving out signals you may regret. They are unlikely to be as easy to get rid of as you may first imagine and tact is everything especially on Wednesday. An ex is on your mind as you finally realise what they meant to you. Ring now to hear how home affairs are under lucky influences.

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21

Make the time to see family and friends you hold dear. If you don't speak but instead listen to what a very familiar face is trying to say, you may learn much about where your future could lead. Quiet though it is, whispers not shouts are being used for these revelations. Wear what you know gives you confidence on Friday. You'll soon see why. Ring now for more on this emotive week.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20

You may want to try arranging something that you know to be relaxing so you may think with a clear mind when you are asked a very important question by the end of this week. The younger generation is going to be demanding a lot from you and if they ask on Wednesday, they may just get it. Ring now to hear whose game you should avoid for a better life (and a lower anxiety level).

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20

Your stars are going to be making it very hard for you to express yourself in a simple manner. Even the jobs which you usually don't have any problem completing, are going to feel overcomplicated. You seem to be confused with a lot of the events which are going on in your life. Clarity is found in asking direct questions before Friday. Ring now for a game plan.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 309 65p PER MINUTE

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19

Any unions that you enter over the coming days, be they for business or personal reasons, would be better approached with caution. There is a lot going on which you are currently unaware of. By Friday you should have a clear idea of just who has your best interests at heart. Love speaks volumes on Tuesday, if you can find the energy to listen. Ring now for courage.

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20

You do not seem to be taking in everything that is going on in your life and if you are not careful, you are going to miss out on not one, but two opportunities to make your dreams become a reality. Pay attention when family talk to you over the coming days, they may have some news for you that can present you with a short cut to a very lucrative opportunity. Ring now for clarity.

Lambert king of Eastern Area mats

HARLOW Judo Club members George Franks (ten) and Owen Lambert (11) were in action in the Eastern Area Open Age Banded Championships in Thetford, Norfolk.

Both boys competed in the Minors group (ages eight to 11) and held their own in the high standard three mat event.

George won three out of five fights in his weight group with some superb judo, but despite battling hard, lost out on the bronze medal match and finished fifth.

In his last competition in the Minors category before moving up to the Pre-Cadets section (ages 12 to 14), Owen showed maturity and great judo techniques to win all his fights by Ippon (maximum score) to take the gold.

Coach Mick Ellis said "I am very pleased with the boys' performances – they both fought extremely well and listened to my instructions."

The club, based in Foldcroft, caters for those with special needs. For training times and more details see www.harlowjudoclub.com or contact Gill Ellis on 07976 955905 for further information.

Duo's Dublin trio of races

HARLOW Running Club members Paul and Wendy Schroder had a busy weekend in Dublin.

On Saturday morning they jogged around the Waterstown parkrun, Wendy finishing in 18th place out of 73 finishers in 27min 50sec and Paul was 19th in the same time.

Two hours later they completed the Dublin Rock 'n' Roll 5k, Paul finishing in 165th place out of 2302 finishers in 22:46 and Wendy was 433rd in 26:00.

Then on Sunday they ran the Dublin Rock 'n' Roll Half Marathon, Paul finishing in 1109th place out of 6260 finishers in 1hr 46:29 and Wendy was 2544th in 1:59:53.

Meanwhile, at the arduous Salisbury 5-4-3-2-1 50k trail race – so-called because it includes five rivers, four hills, three large country estates, two castles, and one cathedral – partially sighted Paul Watts, running with a guide, finished in 250th place out of 284 finishers in an exhausting 7:48:12.

At the Burnham Beeches Half Marathon in Buckinghamshire, Sean Flynn finished in 219th place out of 573 in 1:53:13 and Debbie Barry was 268th in 1:56:27.

Racing in the Cotswold Classic Half Ironman Triathlon at Cirencester, a 1.2 mile open water swim, 56 mile bike ride and 13 mile run, Faith Jackson-Lee finished 224th out of 851 finishers in 5, 14:30, smashing her best time by 30 minutes.

Sidnie Ward

Super Sidnie secures gold

FOURTEEN-year-old Burnt Mill student Sidnie Ward scored an excellent championship victory at Crystal Palace on Sunday.

Competing in the U15 boys' 800m final against 14 other athletes, Sidnie, a member of Woodford Green and Essex Ladies AC, kept in second spot on the first lap in 65 seconds.

With 300m remaining Sidnie took instructions from his coach, John Stow, to make a long run for home.

He duly obliged with a last 300m in 43 seconds to cross the line a worthy champion in 2min 03sec – some 12 metres clear of the second placed runner.

Sidnie has had an excellent season on the track with four championship titles and now looks forward to the cross country season.

'I'm not pressing panic button yet'

Harlow boss confident Hawks can turn the corner

HARLOW Town boss Danny Chapman is refusing to press the panic button as his side look to break their duck in the Bostik Premier Division.

The Hawks suffered their third loss on the bounce at Hendon on Saturday, and following the injury to regular number one David Hughes, Chapman swooped for the Aussie shot stopper Ben McNamara on loan from Dagenham and Redbridge.

McNamara had a baptism of fire on Saturday as Harlow failed to take advantage of a positive first half performance to concede a 64th minute goal from Keagan Cole.

Chapman insisted there is still a lot of confidence in the dressing room despite the defeats.

"I thought we were by far the better side in the first half and created lots of good chances," said Chapman.

"If you look at the three games we've had so far, we've played well in the first half and it's been the second half that's let us down.

"We've got to play consistently for longer periods in the game, not just the first half.

"Ben [McNamara] did very well – he's an experienced goalkeeper and I'm sure he'll continue to produce the goods while David is recovering.

"His shoulder popped out in the game against Harrow Borough and he could be out for anything between six to ten weeks.

"The players are a determined bunch and they are aware as much as I am that we could have easily won the first three games – it's not like we're getting spanked by teams.

Confidence

"We need to manage games and perform for longer periods, but there isn't a confidence issue at all.

"If you go back to this time last year after the first four games we only had one win.

"Come Saturday if we get three points we will be in a better position than this time last year – and we all know what happened last year.

"There's no panic stations or anything like that yet.

"You've got to take into consideration we've got David

Hughes, Craig Pope, Ibrahima Sonko and Jared Small all out injured and it will effect your team.

"I'm not using that as an excuse because that is what you have a squad for.

"Once we have the whole squad fit and able I've no doubt we'll start climbing back up the table.

"We stopped doing things we were doing well in the second half and allowed Hendon back in the game.

"We gave away a poor goal and ended up losing 1-0."

Harlow will be hoping to finally get a win on the board as they host Lowestoft Town this Saturday and then make the short journey to Enfield Town on Monday.

"They are both going to be difficult games, the Enfield game will be like a derby," added Chapman.

Saturday started brightly for the visitors with a fourth minute shot from Syrus Gordon hitting a post.

Junior Dadson then had an effort deflected wide following good work by Nigel Neita.

Hendon's best chance of the half came from Matt Ball, but his fierce shot was superbly saved by McNamara.

The hosts upped their game in the second half and the Hawks rarely threatened.

McNamara was called into action early to block Matt Ball's powerful free-kick.

He then saved when Hendon's Niko Muir broke free on a counter-attack, but it was only a matter of time before the hosts broke the deadlock.

On 63 minutes the ball was fed to Keagan Cole and he picked his spot shoot low and in off the post to take the lead.
